

BREMERHAVEN

FOR YOUNG TRAVELLERS USE-IT

WELCOME TO BREMERHAVEN

BETTER KNOWN AS BHV OR BHAVEN OR FISCHTOWN OR THE MOST UNDERESTIMATED CITY IN GERMANY.

NOW, LOOK AT YOU! YOU ARE HOLDING THIS MAP IN YOUR HANDS AND YOU ARE FULL OF ENERGY TO DISCOVER THE CITY - JUST LIKE GOOD OLD CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS.

YOU WILL MEET COLUMBUS IN THE CITY HERE AND THERE, JUST LIKE HIS BUDDIES SMIDT, LLOYD AND HEIN MÜCK. YOU WILL FIND OUT WHO THEY ARE ON THE BACKSIDE OF THIS MAP! CHECK IT OUT AND LET'S GET STARTED ON THE BREMERHAVEN ADVENTURE!

BY THE WAY: BREMERHAVEN IS NOT THE PORT OF BREMEN. NOR IS IT PART OF LOWER SAXONY. IT IS A CITY THAT BELONGS TO THE FEDERAL STATE OF BREMEN AND IS LOCATED AT THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER WESER AS WELL AS AT THE NORTH SEA.

ACT LIKE A LOCAL

TIP 1 Never, ever, eat your snacks like chips, fish sandwiches or ice cream near the dike. In Bremerhaven there are gangster seagulls whose favorite pastime is stealing food from tourists.

TIP 2 Read point 1 again. We are serious.

TIP 3 Say goodbye to your umbrella. Summer in Bremerhaven is really, really nice. But sometimes we have rainy and stormy days. And your maritime nordic vacation has turned into an adventure vacation with flying umbrellas and stormy hair.

TIP 4 The Bremerhaveners like to rant about their own city, but they are actually the biggest fans of it. Confuse them a bit by sharing your enthusiasm for the city.

TIP 5 Looking for the best Fischbrötchen (fish sandwich/bread roll) or the best fish restaurant in town? Then ask a local. He will be happy to help you and, in the best case, he will also tell you what his favorite dish is.

TIP 6 "Let's meet in front of 133 at 8:00!". If a local only mentions the number when naming an address, it usually means a house on Bürgermeister-Smidt-Street. By the way, this street is often abbreviated to just BÜRGER.

TOURIST INFO

HOW TO GET AROUND
The yellow buses of "Bremerhaven Bus" take you everywhere. If you have just arrived at the main station and are looking for the city center, it is best to take one of the lines heading north: 502 504 505 506 508 509 HL. Get off when you hear "Große Kirche" or "Havenwelten".

LOCAL TIP With the app "Fahrplaner" (VBN) you can always find the best connection and also book tickets. Otherwise, you can also discover Bremerhaven by bike or by foot. If you ever get lost, here is a little orientation: The city is long and narrow. On the left is water. On the right is the A27 highway. In the middle, a radar tower, a church and a hotel that looks like a sail.

WI-FI
Now you have to be strong: Free Wi-Fi is still rare here. But see it as a chance for a few days of digital detox. In some cafes and buses it should not be a problem.

CASH / ATM
It is best to always have some cash with you. In smaller stores, restaurants, buses, cabs and at the farmers markets, payment with card is not possible. ATMs can be found throughout the city.

OPENING HOURS
Most retailers are open until 6/7 pm. Supermarkets are often open until 9/10 pm. On Sundays, stores are closed in Bremerhaven (and almost everywhere in Germany). However, cultural institutions such as museums, cinemas, theaters are usually open on this day as well.
LOCAL TIP Many gas stations are open around the clock and at the 24h EDEKA you can get ketchup for your fries even at 3 am.

ONE LAST THING:
DON'T DRIVE YOUR BIKE IN THE FUSSGÄNGERZONE
As the name suggests, this is an area for pedestrians. If you ride your bike here you will not make yourself popular or in the worst case you will get a fine.

5 MINUTES OF HISTORY

WHY IS THE CITY THE WAY IT IS? HERE IS A LITTLE HISTORY LESSON FOR FREE

1821 Johann Smidt, the mayor of Bremen at the time, buys a piece of land from the Kingdom of Hanover because Bremen needed more space for port operations. BREMERHAVEN IS BORN!

1830 Following the onset of mass emigration overseas via Bremerhaven, the city experienced a rapid boom. Next to the port, a growing, urban, settlement emerged.

1944 On September 18, the city was bombed by the Allies. Today's Mitte and Geestemünde districts were almost completely destroyed by the attack within only 20 minutes.

1945 After the Second World War Bremerhaven became an enclave of the American occupation zone in the British zone. That's why you'll come across something American in one place or another in the city.

1950 Germany's first fish stick was produced in a Bremerhaven fish factory.

1970 The fishing and shipbuilding economy collapsed.

1986 1990, 1995, 2000, 2005, 2008, 2010, 2015, 2025 The "SAIL" has long since become an international institution. It is one of the largest windjammer (traditionally-rigged sailing vessel) meetings in Europe and the world.

1993 The US soldiers leave Bremerhaven.

2000 More and more is invested in tourism. The Havenwelten develop. In addition, the city focuses on renewable energies and science.

2011 More than 6 million containers were handled in the port this year. That is a European record!

TODAY You are curiously strolling through the alleys of our multifaceted city. How do you like it here? Tell others or feel free to send us a digital postcard to: bremerhavense-it.travel

UMZU TIPS

AND AGAIN A NEW WORD: "UMZU" IS THE NORTH GERMAN TERM FOR "AREA AROUND HERE". THE REGION AROUND BREMERHAVEN ALSO HAS A LOT TO OFFER.

WREMEN (CUTTER HARBOR)
Perfect for the first stop during your bike tour. Hungry? At STRANDHUS or SIEBHAUS you can enjoy a great view and good snacks while watching the ships swinging.

DORUM (CUTTER HARBOR)
There are several FISH STALLS here, all of which offer delicious, fresh fish sandwiches for sale to visitors.

CUXHAVEN
The health resorts around Cuxhaven are a good destination for a short DAY TRIP to the beach. Only a stone's throw away is the so-called "ALTE LIEBE" (old love) - a former pier in the harbor, which today serves as a viewing platform.

BAD BEDERKESA
Take a seat on the MUSEUM RAILROAD in Bremerhaven and take advantage of a historic steam locomotive ride through a picturesque landscape for a trip to Bad Bederkesa. Once there, the MOOR THERME is well worth a visit.

BREMEN
You haven't landed in a fairy tale, but in the SCHNOOR! Small alleys, colorful houses, craftsmanship. In the so-called VIERTEL (districts Osterter and Steintor) it becomes a bit more modern, because here is the more alternative part of Bremen located.

DEESDORF
At the former ferry dock there now is the WESERPERLE with sandy beach, homemade cakes, burgers, Dutch fries and good vegi & vegan options.
